Winning Tallies When
Two Men Are Out

The Knights of Columbus baseball championship trophy, valued at $275 and representing the best baseball team among Casey clubs in California, is on its way to Glendale today, won by the Glendale Caseys yesterday at Oakland in one of the most thrilling finishes in which Glendale beat the Oakland Casey team, 7 to 5.

Going into the ninth inning with the score 5 to 4 against them, the Glendale Caseys began gathering up their bats, preparatory to leaving the field, defeated, when the tide of battle turned.

There were two men out. Two strikes on Seiser, right fielder.

FRENCH BONDS
WEAK ON MARKET

New York Exchange Flooded
With 'Unloading' of European Issue

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—French government bonds displayed extreme weakness on the New York Stock Exchange today as heavy offerings were forced on the market simultaneously with a violent decline in prices of industrial stocks. The new 7 per cent bonds which closed on Saturday at 91 1/4 declined to 88 5/8 for a loss of about 2 1/2 points, the heaviest reaction ever sustained by these bonds in a single session. The old 8 per cent bonds dropped 2 points to 102 1/4 and the old 7 1/2-2s were down nearly a point to 99 1/4.

NEW RACE FOR NAVAL LEAD
UNDER WAY

French Program, If Carried Out, Will Force Other Nations to Follow

BULLETIN
PARIS, Feb. 16.—The foreign office announced this evening that the disarmament conference that was to have met in June after ratification of the Geneva protocol, has been abandoned absolutely. A spokesman for the office indicated that there was no possibility now of Great Britain working out a combined policy with its dominions before the league assembly meeting in September.

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—Naval supremacy holds the foremost place in the British mind today because of the forthcoming naval budget. One faction wants an increased appropriation to build cruisers; another wants tax reduction and a pared naval expense bill.

A new race for naval supremacy is under way, according to the Express, which says that the five signatory powers at Washington have 289 warships, building and projected, compared with 226 ships building and projected, in 1914.

France is considering the construction of two 17,500 ton battle cruisers, a move she may make under the Washington treaty, which permits her 35,000 tons of new major ships up to 1927, the Express said.

If France builds these ships, the newspaper continues, other nations will be forced to compete.

Considerable prominence has been given to Captain Zerb's suggestion in the Parisian press that France prepare to enforce a submarine blockade against England in the event of war.

The other side of the picture is presented by former Commander Kenworthy, member of parliament, who says:

"Our strength is so overwhelming against any possible enemy, we can afford to go slowly in construction."

Kenworthy says Japan can't build up to the Washington treaty limits because of her huge earthquake bill, and says the United States is unlikely to quarrel with "her best paymaster."

He says furthermore that the navy no longer is the first line of defense.

"If there should be war with Japan, which is improbable," he says, "the United States would come to England's aid, but the real constant menace is from our good friend, France, who has the strongest air force in the world."

"No matter how much faith we have in the League of Nations, as long as the heart of our empire is open to a sudden and terrible air attack, our position is insecure."

Sunland Plea

Attorneys for the supervisors demurred to the plea, and the demurrer was sustained.

CAVE CAPTIVE TO REST IN HILL TOMB

Floyd Collins to Be Buried
Among Stalagmites He Discovered In 1918

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 16.—In death Floyd Collins will rest among the caverns he loved.

And the simple words of God which will be said over his body will resound through the passages of the great crystal cave which he discovered in 1918 and whose beauties he pointed out as a guide to the visitors who came to marvel.

Because this would have been his wish, the father pointed out today, waiting above the pit where workers were digging nearer and nearer his son, verified this plan.

Nature's Monument
"If he's dead," the aged father's voice wavered and he turned to his pastor, Rev. Alfred Cooper of the Mission Baptist church, to outline details of the plan.

Actual burial, according to the tentative plan, would be on the brow of the towering cliff overshadowing the pit beneath which for seventeen days he had been nature's prisoner. And his monument would be a spire of stalagmites taken from the caves of this vicinity.

The father was rushed to the cave and there made this statement:

"I want to thank the world at large. I can't get done thanking

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 16.

"Thank God, they've found him." This was Lee Collins' single statement this afternoon when newspapermen at the Dixie hotel where he was resting advised him that his son Floyd had been found, apparently dead.

His eyes filled with moisture. His hand shook. His voice choked.

"I can't say any more," he said faltering. "Just tell them that I'm eternally grateful. God has answered me."

DISCOVER BODY IMPRISONED FOR SEVENTEEN DAYS

Officially Announce Finding Cavern's
Captive This Afternoon; No Disorders
As Soldiers Stand Guard At Pit

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 16.—The "living tomb" has revealed its prisoner. Floyd Collins was reached by rescue workers at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon. They declared that, apparently, he was dead. He showed no sign of life; no respiration; his jaw was protruding; his cheeks sunken—defeated in a game fight for life. It will be several hours before the body can be brought to the surface.

Doctors attempted to crawl to the body in hope of finding a spark of life left, but were prevented by the narrowness of the shaft.

Rescue workers who did succeed in touching the body declared that life was extinct. "Floyd Collins is dead," declared officials in charge of the rescue work. And the cave's victim will be buried on the hillside among the caverns that he loved and explored, among the caves for which he gave his life.

There was no formal medical finding an hour after the body was reached, but Adjutant-General James A. Kehoe declared Collins was dead on the basis of decomposition odors in the passage.

Dies of Exhaustion
The electric light which was thought to have conveyed the message of life through the radio-microphone was found on the prisoner's chest extinguished.

The unofficial report of the doctors after hearing this, was that Collins died of exhaustion and exposure.

Previous to Kehoe's statement, two doctors had attempted to pass through the narrow man hole, giving entrance to the original crawlyway through which Collins had entered his prison and had found themselves unable to enter.

They questioned Ed Brenner, a workman of Cincinnati, who had passed through, however, and on the basis of his statement declared officially that Collins "probably was dead."

There was no intimation as to how long he had been dead.

Official Announcement
Made of Finding Collins

SAND CAVE, Ky., Feb. 16.—Floyd Collins was officially announced located in his Sand cave prison at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon.

Apparently, he was dead, but at that time the medical commission had not entered the shaft and there was no official announcement regarding his condition.

The announcement of the finding of the body was made by General H. H. Denhardt, M. E. S. Posey, Dr. William Funkhouser and H. T. Carmichael.

At 2:50 o'clock no doctor had entered the shaft, but the official medical commission, including Major E. C. Francis of Bowling Green, Major H. M. Moss and Dr. William Hazlett of Chicago, were standing by to be lowered.

Discovery Surprised
Carmichael said the find came, he understood, when a workman digging through flintlike limestone with a hand-pick unexpectedly broke through into an opening, walked on a few feet and came to Collins.

The discovery came as a complete surprise, at a time when it was expected several hours would be required to dig through what had been estimated to be a five-foot limestone ledge.

Carmichael, when word that the goal of seventeen days had been reached, went alone in the shaft, and came out to make this report:

"We have found Collins and, after a preliminary examination, we believe he is dead."

The word of the discovery flashed through the crowd that had been waiting for days on the cliff like wildfire, but there was no disorder. Soldiers stood by with fixed bayonets.

A fourth doctor, Dr. C. C. Howard of Glasgow, Ky., joined the other three, and at 2:55 they were lowered into the shaft.

In the interim the last of the dirt and debris which had blocked the way to Collins was rapidly raised by the derrick and dumped so that the way for the physicians would be cleared.

Brother Turned Back
While the doctors were still below, the operation committee, including Funkhouser, Posey and Carmichael and Denhardt, began drawing the formal report of the finding.

A few minutes before Collins was reached, Homer Collins was turned back when he attempted to dash past the guard at the entrance to the pit. No member of the family was in the pit at the time.

At 3:05 o'clock a supplementary official bulletin of the finding.

WOMAN TELLS AIM OF SCHOOL BONDS

Mrs. M. L. Tight Is Booster For Favorable Vote On Proposition

Editor The Evening News: I would like to say a few words of warning to the people of Glendale having watched the developments of this "fastest growing city" for a great many years, and which I am proud to say I have assisted to the best of my ability. We have made a few mistakes, but not many. As one of the oldest residents and a realtor, I strongly urge, that the school bonds carry in such a convincing manner that there will be no doubt in the minds of the public that Glendale will take care of the school necessities for the present time, while preparing for the needs of the future.

The greatest mistake we could make, would be for the word to be noised abroad that Glendale could not give to its children, adequate school accommodations, if we would keep our beautiful city at its best vote for the bonds.

MRS. M. L. TIGHT,
510 N. Glendale avenue.

DARKENED WINDOWS

By Cornelia Kane Rathbone, Is a Great Mystery Story. It Will Appear As a Serial In The Glendale Evening News, Starting Next Tuesday, February 17

SYNOPSIS OF THE STORY

John Graham, young, wealthy, a junior member of one of New York's oldest law firms, found himself one evening in an unfamiliar part of the city, with just $1.25 in his pocket.

So he dined at a small French restaurant, where, by mistake, he received the wrong coat check and the overcoat of a stranger. In the pocket of this coat was a slip of paper bearing the address of a handsome residence in the same fashionable section of the city in which Graham himself lived. The note, in a woman's handwriting, was signed "E. H." and read—"Tonight must end it."

As Graham had left in the pocket of his own coat a valuable emerald bracelet, he hastened to the address on the note in the hope of finding both the stranger and his own overcoat.

But he found instead a deserted house and "Darkened Windows." Inside a dog yelped piteously. Making his way upstairs, he released the dog, which led him to the dimly lighted library. There, at the desk, sat the figure of a man—murdered.

"From this opening," says the New York Times in an enthusiastic review, "the story moves swiftly, with many devious twists and windings, leading Graham into some peculiar places and inducing him to do certain things—such as playing burglar—which are not always regarded as strictly within the province of an entirely correct young lawyer. It is an entertaining tale, with plenty of suspense and more than one surprise, concocted with no small degree of skill."

Who was guilty of the murder and why was there murder? This riddle is solved by Detective Flint, a bespectacled, insignificant little man, who, after making more than one mistake, brings the guilty one to light.

So cleverly do the motives and clues dovetail that the murderer, although present all through the story, is not suspected until the last suspense-laden chapter.

Says the Toledo News-Bee, in warning its readers: "Don't suspect everybody in the story. On the contrary, believe in everybody until you are sure you shouldn't."

In his presentation address, T. W. Preston, president of the library board, congratulated the residents of Northwest Glendale on the new structure and asked the solid support of the district when, in the future, additional funds are sought to increase the capacity of the main library. The ultimate plan of the board is to

BROWNSPEAKS TO CROWDED MEETING

Evangelist Asks 'Are You On Lord's Side?' as Campaign Keynote

"Are you on the Lord's side," asked Evangelist John Brown, in sounding the keynote of his campaign of saving souls in Glendale, when he preached before an audience that overflowed the union tabernacle on North Kenwood street last night.

"America needs a fighting church. You can't have a battle without drawing a line, and there can be no line drawn without an issue. Whose side are you on? Are you on the Lord's side?" he shouted. "I am sounding the keynote of this campaign. I want to make the issue. I want to draw the line. It is righteousness against unrighteousness; life against death; salvation against damnation; Heaven against Hell."

Mr. Brown read the thirty-second chapter of Exodus, beginning with the nineteenth verse, which tells of Moses coming down after forty days on the mount and finding the Israelites worshipping the golden calf, and of Moses' anger and terrible retribution meted out to those who had turned from God to the worship of idols. "Nowhere in history," he said, "is there shown a greater difference in two types of leaders than in Moses, the stern leader, and Aaron, who was a beautiful character, but weak. Aaron had compromised, but Moses, knowing of it, made the issue clear cut, crying aloud: 'Who is on the Lord's side?' America is in need of leaders, men and women big enough to lead in the right direction and keep to the Lord's side."

Quick Religion
"The world of today wants quick religion. It seems to want to drive up to a filling station and have it dished out like gasoline. Gimme a shot of religion, and make it short and snappy," is their idea of doing it."

Hundreds were turned away from the tabernacle for lack of room during the services last night. One of the largest crowds of the campaign also heard Mr. Brown Saturday night when he talked on "Fishers of Men." No services will be held tonight. Secretary Kilby announced. Tomorrow night Mr. Brown will take as his topic: "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" Wednesday will be special church night, and blocks of seats will be reserved for church officers, Sunday school teachers and others. Morning services at the tabernacle will commence tomorrow at 10 o'clock. They will last for one hour each morning, with the exception of Saturday and Sunday.

TIGHT SKIRT STYLE

NICE, Feb. 16.—Skirts now worn here are apparently as tight as they possibly can be. Some where concealed at sides or front are tiny pleats of fluting which become apparent only when the wearer walks. These are of contrasting colors, and so a black frock sometimes reveals a flash of scarlet and a white dress one of ecyclamen.

EMBROIDERY HATS

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—What makes the late winter hats cost more? Embroidery. The shapes are small, with just enough brim to turn up a bit in front. The crowns are high and draped. The material usually is silk faille, and the creation is covered with embroidery in jewel tones, violet and the spring flower shades.

VISION IN BUSINESS

Much is said of the necessity of the writer, the artist and the scientist being persons of vision and imagination. But the man who is successful in business must have imagination, too. The man who pays $16,000 for advertising space on the back cover of a widely-circulated magazine is a man of vision. In his mind's eye he can see that magazine lying, back up, on library tables in millions of homes all over the United States. It is that same vision that has made him the successful man that he is, the man who needs the magazine of largest circulation in the country to tell about his product, the man who can pay and who knows that it pays him to pay the highest price for high-class advertising.

A man who has not this power of imagination finds it difficult to understand the value of advertising and to believe in its effectiveness. And so he does not get the returns that he should from his advertising because he does not advertise consistently and constantly nor give sufficient attention to this feature of his business. And the very fact that he does not believe in it is against him, for he rarely experiences good when we are looking for evil. This man sees his advertisement in the newspaper and he knows that it appears in every copy of the issue in which it is printed, and yet he cannot see it being read by the people. He is as badly handicapped as the man who had circulars printed advertising a sale. When they were in print and he had read one he was satisfied, and made no effort to distribute them. He seemed to think the mere fact of his message being in print was sufficient.

The Glendale Evening News goes into the homes of 7,000 bona fide subscribers. These people pay for the News for the sole reason that they want a Glendale paper, and not because they are getting it as a premium with any other article or for any other reason whatsoever. It does not take a great deal of imagination to deduce that these people under such circumstances read the News, and being a newspaper the people want, pay for, take into their homes and read, it is the best advertising medium.

Your advertisement in the Glendale Evening News goes into the homes of 7,000 people who want the paper for itself alone. Does your advertising message stand as good a chance of being read by so many people in any other medium? Good business men of Glendale have been able to see, in the mind's eye, their advertisements in the Glendale Evening News being read by a vast army of people. And they have learned that consistent advertising, suggestions made to the people and kept before them are acted upon.

PRESIDENTS' FAMILIES

Dr. Lyon G. Tyler, 71 years of age, recently became the father of a son. Dr. Tyler is the son of President Tyler, who was born in 1790. If Dr. Tyler's son lives to be 75 he will see the year 2000, and three generations of this family will have lived in four different centuries.

Had it not been that this incident is a little unusual most of us never would have known that John Tyler, our tenth president, has a son living. Which led some one to remark that we hear very little about the families of our former presidents, except those of very recent times.

Robert Lincoln is well known but seldom heard of, and little is known about his family. Julia Grant is famous in her own right as Princess Catawampus and for her ability as a writer. Another Grant granddaughter recently was heard from for the reason that she committed suicide. The young son of Grover Cleveland, a University student, was in the limelight for a day when his engagement to a society girl was announced. Theodore Roosevelt's sons will hold their places in the public eye through the force of their own personality. Teddy, Jr., as a politician, Kermit as a traveler and writer, and Archie as a business man. The Taft family is seldom heard from. All but one of the Wilson girls have disappeared from the public view, and she is not "news" as the daughter of President Wilson so much as the wife of William G. McAdoo. Benjamin Harrison, William McKinley and Warren G. Harding left no children. It is presumable that there are many descendants of our earlier presidents living and that many of them are worthy of their illustrious forbears, but we seldom hear of them and are not greatly interested in them.

FIGHTING FEAR

Columbia university investigators have just announced the result of lengthy experiments to determine the origin of fear. They claim that this emotion is the result of mental association rather than instinctive caution. Children are born without fear and are usually three years old before they show fright at darkness, fire, snakes and the like.

Children do not fear unless they are taught to fear by parents who frighten them with threats, with stories that inflame the imagination or by showing fear themselves. Fear not only causes untold agony to children, but it is a terrific handicap in the struggle of life. It is the most deadly of the emotions and is the basis of every failure in life. Parents who would shower every blessing upon their children should protect them from the evils of fear and should teach them that "being afraid is being ignorant." The happiest soul on earth is the one who can say:

"Beyond this place of wrath and tears
Looms but the horror of the shade.
And yet the menace of the years
Finds, and shall find, me unafraid."

HERO STUFF

The plight of Floyd Collins imprisoned so long in a Kentucky cave has served to give people everywhere a little firmer faith in human nature and in themselves. It brings home to us the truth that ordinary people are made of the same stuff as heroes, that when it comes to facing death, and worse, common folk can be courageous. The Kentucky mountain boy awaited with fortitude either deliverance or death, while enduring the most intense physical pain and mental suffering. He was optimistic but ready for any fate that might await him.

Of course we do not all react in the same way to misfortune and danger, but we could ask no greater gift than to be able to face suffering and death with such courage and resignation as that shown by Floyd Collins, unless we should ask for courage to face life, which is sometimes more difficult than facing death. And if we can meet life right the crises that come to us will take care of themselves.

Two Kinds of Humor

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Most humor is the surprise of the unexpected. It is like going down a strange stairway in the dark. One kind of humor lies in thinking that there is another step when there isn't, the other kind is the shock that comes from thinking there is no other step when there is.

The former hurts, the latter simply surprises. So there is one kind of humor that hurts, that has a sting to it, the other kind is that which simply amuses.

An old saying is "It requires a certain amount of genius to shine in wit that is as kindly as it is brilliant."

Wit has also been called the Art of Getting Oneself Disliked.

In the one case we laugh at a person, and in the other case there is co-operation, and in the other case we make him ridiculous.

There is a dearth of the kind of humor that is kindly and genial, and there is entirely too much of the kind of humor that leaves bitterness in its trail.

The man that is expert in the latter kind of humor finds his friends growing fewer and fewer as he lives on, the other kind of a man finds the number of his friends growing more and more.

A good example of the kind of humor that is genial and kindly is that of Mark Twain. He always succeeded in making you laugh with him. The other kind of humor is exemplified in that of Bernard Shaw. You feel that he is laughing at you. If a man cares for the favor of his fellows, he should refrain from that sort of wit which has a sting to it, and should devote his attention to that kind of humor which contains genial good fellowship.

Sometimes when a man reaches the end of the staircase, or thinks he has reached it—that is when he thinks he has come to the bottom and he has not—his step-off may result in a fatal accident. It may do him harm and not good.

So there is a kind of humor whose tendency is to injure and hurt us. There are some people, for instance, who are gifted in saying sharp but unpleasant things about their neighbors. This is a fatal gift, and one to be restrained. For what we say of people who are absent invariably gets back to them. If we get into the habit of saying only kindly things, and things that will bear repeating—favorable remarks—of even those who are not present these will return to us a pleasant usufruct. The ability to say sharp things and cutting things should be restrained, if we care anything for the good opinion of our fellows, and if we have any tendency toward humor it should be exercised in a way that will amuse but not injure those whom we ridicule.

Ridicule is a dangerous weapon, and the ability to say sharp things should be most carefully restrained.

Horoscope

Astrologers read this as an unfortunate day, since Saturn, the Sun and Mars are all in malefic aspect.

Industrial conditions may present puzzling problems while this planetary government prevails and there may be many changes among workers' leaders.

Discontent may affect persons of every walk of life, for spiritual forces are to be strong at this time and they prevent contentment with material possessions.

Old persons and the traditions they represent will be rapidly swept away in this new year, but while progress along every line of thought will be rapid there will be a return to what is best in the old order of things.

This is not an auspicious rule for men in high place and they are likely to meet with much criticism and even strong opposition. Disensions and even bitter contests of opinion among lawmakers are foretold for the next few weeks.

Congress is to be the target for great misjudgment and its strongest men may suffer serious defeats in the policies they seek to uphold.

Mars is in a place that certainly foreshadows much talk of war and its possibilities. The rise of peace organizations that will meet with obstacles and even abuse, is prophesied.

This is not an auspicious day for the healing of domestic ills and appears to indicate more divorces than have been recorded in the past.

Again earthquakes in districts unaccustomed to seismic disturbances are prognosticated.

Theatrical enterprises are subject to the most unfavorable rule so far as public approval is concerned.

A new venture in popular journalism, or at least a new phase of old newspaper enterprises, is forecast.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of some worries

Today's Poem

MEETING AT NIGHT
The gray sea and the long black land,
And the yellow half-moon large and low;
And the startled little waves that leap
In the fiery ringlets from their sleep,
As I gain the cove with pushing prow
And quench its speed in the slushy sand.
Then a mile of warm sea-scented beach;
Three fields to cross till a form appears;
A tap at the pane, the quick sharp scratch
And blue spurt of a lighted match,
And a voice less loud, through
Its joys and fears,
Than the two hearts beating each to each!

Who's Who

At the age of 75, Charles R. Flint, "Father of the Trusts," is actively engaged on the largest project of his colorful career—a $100,000,000 consolidation of West Virginia coal companies.

It will be the twenty-third important industrial merger effected by Flint and will bring the total capital of companies organized by him to about $500,000,000.

The negotiations, he said, involve approximately 75,000 acres of undeveloped coal land in Northern West Virginia, as well as 150 producing mines with a total annual product of more than 20,000,000 tons.

In the last thirty-five years Flint has been the chief figure in bringing about industrial consolidations out of which grew twenty-two important corporations. Individually dubbed a "trustmaker," he has always staunchly defended the principle of industrial consolidations as making for lower production and distributing costs.

Some of the larger companies organized through his efforts are the United States Rubber Co., the American Woolen Co., the American Chicle Co., Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Co., Somerset Coal Co., Computing-Tabulating-Recording Co., and the National Starch Co., which later became a part of the Corn Products Co.

Coming from Thomaston, Me., he began in business here as a dock clerk. After intensive experience in Southern Railway, politics and revolutions, he is said to be the best informed American on Latin-American affairs.

He became a member of the firm of Gilchrist, Flint & Co., ship chandlers. Later he united with William R. Grace in forming the firm of W. R. Grace & Co. The information of his own firm brought him into the shipping, lumber, rubber and general commission business with interests all over the world.

About two years ago he found time to write a breezy column entitled "Memories of an Active Life." In this he said he was not a very rich man, and that perhaps

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

In the struggle for the means of enjoyment, which is, after all, the prime motive in life, there are qualities that insure success. Thomas Huxley believed these qualities to be:

ENERGY
INTELLECTUAL CAPACITY
TENACITY OF PURPOSE.
To these must be added: at least as much sympathy as is necessary to make a man understand the feelings of his fellows.

"Were there none of those artificial arrangements by which fools and knaves are kept at the top of society instead of sinking to their natural place at the bottom," Huxley observed, "the struggle for means of enjoyment would insure a constant circulation of the human units of the social compound, from the bottom to the top and the top to the bottom."

"The survivors of the contest, those who continued to form the great bulk of the polity, would not be those 'fittest' who get to the very top, but, the great body of the moderately 'fit' whose numbers and superior propagative power enable them always to swamp the exceptionally endowed minority."

But it should be obvious that, whether we consider the internal or external interests of society, it is desirable they be in the hands of those who are endowed with the largest share of energy, industry, of intellectual capacity, of tenacity of purpose, while they are not devoid of sympathetic humanity; and, in so far as the struggle for the means of enjoyment tends to place such men in possession of wealth and influence, it is in process which tends to the good of society.

Why Should You Deprive Your Community of the Benefit of Your Dollar?

That dollar that you spent out of town yesterday! The one you might just as well or better have spent in Glendale, as far as value you received for it is concerned! It was only a dollar. That is what you thought, if you thought of your duty to your home community at all. Compared to all the wealth of Glendale, what is a dollar? A dollar will not make one community richer or another poorer. That's the way you stilled your conscience.

A dollar in your purse is only a dollar. But in circulation it is much more. It is impossible to compute the value of a dollar in circulation, for it is obvious we cannot follow it around from hand to hand and note the good it does, the bills it pays and the improvements it provides. That dollar you spent yesterday stands about one chance in a thousand of getting back to Glendale and doing your home town some good. Can't you picture it circulating merrily around the larger city, increasing the wealth of that community and paying the bills of the people. It is safe to say you will never see it again.

But it is a pity that you, who live in Glendale and enjoy the benefits of this wonderful city, should deprive the home community of the many dollars of value contained in that one dollar that you took away from Glendale yesterday when you could have purchased with it the same merchandise with less trouble, inconvenience and expense right here. It is too bad you deprived yourself of the benefit that dollar would have been to you spent in Glendale in increasing the wealth of this city many dollars' worth, for it would have come back to you, actually or in increased community prosperity.

This is an old story, the story of what one dollar can do, but some of us never learn to apply it. We even add to this dollar and multiply it and then take it out of town to spend it. Insofar as we do this and insofar as our neighbors follow our example, just to that extent is Glendale the sufferer.

When we patronize our own fine stores we are keeping our dollars where they will multiply for our own benefit.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, Feb. 16.—At the recent meeting of the Woman's club practically all of the members signed for the building to be erected on the present site where for a time at least meetings will be held. The signatures were secured after the president, Mrs. Charles Turk, had outlined to the members the value of the property under recent appraisal, when experienced men valued the land at $10,000. The building committee is working on the plans for the building and will present them to the members at the next meeting.

Mrs. Zephia Merritt, curator of the home economics section, gave an outline for the March luncheon and program, which is to be furnished by that department.

This meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Turk. There will be a china exhibit in charge of a lecturer from Pamelae-Dohrmann's, also an exhibit of crockery from Barker Brothers.

A message of appreciation from the Pasadena Shakespeare club was sent thanking the La Crescenta Woman's club for the reception it had accorded the members on their recent visit. In speaking of the hospitality, Mrs. Eloise Farmer asked for several volunteers as the work was too much for the small committee now functioning.

Mrs. Rhettie Sluttman will act as vice-chairman of the committee. New members voted in by acclamation were Mesdames William Dransfield, M. Jamison, Glenbrook Jones, F. Marks, M. Cookson, Julia Hendrix and D. Wooley.

A letter of thanks for her Christmas present was read from the French war-orphan, whom the club has been caring for until this year. Mrs. Seymour Thomas read the letter and translated.

The next dance of the club will be held in the school house, and will be in charge of Mesdames Gertrude Card, H. Conway and Glen Brooks.

Canon Renison of Eagle Rock

met the Episcopalians of La Crescenta valley Friday night at the new church on the corner of Michigan and Rosemont avenues, to discuss with them the proposed visit of the bishop of the diocese. Canon Renison will come to the church every Wednesday during Lent to give Lenten talks on the Lord's Prayer, also to prepare those who are desirous of being confirmed when the bishop visits.

The date set for Bishop Johnson to come to the valley is Sunday, March 8. Though the church proper will not be completed by that time, the service will be held in the guild room with the new altar which later will be permanently placed in the church. There are also altar rails waiting the completion of the church and other ecclesiastical furniture, according to Canon Renison, who has received many gifts for the building through his efforts on behalf of the congregation of St. Lukes.

A financial report of the church is being read by Seymour Thomas, who is senior warden and chairman of the building fund. Mrs. Thomas read the report of the chair fund. More chairs are being ordered and will be on hand for March 8.

Mrs. Mary B. Darrow, president of the guild, gave an outline of the March Gras tea to be held at the church on Tuesday, Feb. 24. There will be a cooked food sale in connection with the tea and numerous novelties befitting a Mardi Gras.

Arrangements have been made through the Montrose and La Crescenta Parent-Teachers' association to furnish autos for the election on Tuesday, Feb. 17, when the residents of the valley will vote on the Glendale Union high school bonds. Autos will leave the Montrose Pharmacy at 9 and 11 a. m. and at 2 and 4 p. m., going by Montrose, Honolulu and Michigan boulevards to the school house where the election will be held.

At these same hours machines will leave the valley terminal of the street cars and cover the entire west district of the valley beyond Pennsylvania avenue. All

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Feb. 16.—Incorporation petitions of Tujunga voters will be heard by the county board of supervisors on Monday, March 2, according to the decision of those officials when the petitions were presented to them. At that time it will be decided, the voters of Tujunga hope, whether or not an election will be called to decide on incorporating a city of the sixth class in Tujunga. The board of supervisors made the postponement to allow them to check the boundaries and names signed to the papers, they stated. Attorney C. W. Byrer of Hillhaven, the Hollywood of Tujunga, represented the petitioners in presenting the papers.

A cleanup campaign for home owners and other property owners is to be inaugurated Feb. 27, by the Kiwanis club, and will continue for one week. The object is to bring the natural attractiveness of the Tujunga properties up to a maximum by eliminating all accumulated rubbish, brush and rocks, and painting weather-beaten buildings. Prizes will be awarded to persons who make the best improvement in their properties. Presidents of the women's organizations have been invited to act as judges in the contest.

A prosperity ball will be given Friday evening, Feb. 27, at the Garden of the Moon park pavilion, cars will be marked so voters may stop them and be taken to the schoolhouse. Arrangements have also been made for the people living north of Michigan avenue on Briggs avenue, so there may be no excuse for the voters not turning out.

The following report from the Harvey Bissell gauge shows the rainfall for the month of January, from 1918 to 1925 inclusive: 1918, 0.40 inch; 1919, 2.03 inches; 1920, .41 inch; 1921, 4.73 inches; 1922, 8.22 inches; 1923, 2.43 inches; 1924, 0.93 inch; 1925, .28 inch. by the Tujunga Kiwanis club. This ball is to symbolize the prosperity which the club anticipates for the coming year.

A mass meeting of Tujunga citizens was held at 9 o'clock yesterday morning at the rock crushing plant in Haines canyon for the purpose of inspecting the sites of flood control improvements to be made by the county flood control. The meeting was called by John H. Kantz, chairman of the flood control committee of the Tujunga chamber of commerce.

Engineer Reagan of the county flood control commission has asked for an expression of the desires of Tujungans in the matter of spending the $100,000 appropriated in a recent bond issue for work in Haines canyon.

According to Mr. Kantz, Mr. Reagan has stated that the money is available and the engineer's department desires an agreement with Tujungans on the improvements to be made.

Mrs. H. B. Lynch, president of the Parent-Teachers' association, gave a card party Wednesday evening at the Woman's clubhouse, on San Ysidro street.

The annual picnic of the Woman's club will be held Feb. 17 at the clubhouse. In the form of a kids' party, when members and their families will be expected to attend in juvenile dress and indulge in games of their childhood.

Mrs. Minnie L. Dunn has completed a course of music study, taken from Mrs. Edward McDowell, wife of the well-known composer.

Among the out-of-town people who recently visited friends in Tujunga were: Mrs. Walen Fink, La Verne; Mrs. Eliza Rugg, Los Angeles; and Mrs. Joe Noyes, Los Angeles; Mrs. Betty Fink, La Verne.

Winters in Poland are so severe that the automobile trade is almost paralyzed.

Twelve thousand railway cars are to be bought at once by an English railway.

SUNLAND NOTES

SUNLAND, Feb. 16.—The incorporation plans for Sunland citizens, who hope to establish local government by forming a city of the sixth class, received a setback at the hands of the County Board of Supervisors when those officials denied petitions asking that an election be held to settle the question by ballot.

The hearing of the petitions was held in Los Angeles and the action of the supervisors in denying the voters an election was anticipated to such an extent that a writ of mandamus was served on the Board of County Supervisors within an hour after they had announced their decision.

The writ of mandamus directs the supervisors to call the election on incorporation in Sunland or prepare in court and give reasons why they did not do so. The hearing is set for today in department 25 of the superior court before Judge Craig.

The supervisors denied the petitions on the ground that there were less than the required number of residents in the boundaries of the proposed city of Sunland, after the said boundaries had been revised by them to exclude property owners who desired to be left out of the city.

Earl Newnir, Sunland attorney and real estate broker, represented the petitions in presenting their plea to the supervisors and in preparing and serving the writ of mandamus. Mr. Newnir said he is prepared to go to a higher court if necessary.

A new home is being built by John Abernathy on his Sunland property.

A double birthday anniversary celebration was held recently at the Sunland Home for the Aged in honor of the matron, Mrs. B. C. Ekey and Arthur Bennett. Two birthday cakes were prepared by Al Bernard, chef, and a birthday supper was served, followed by games and music. Mrs. William Gooding of Los Angeles was a guest.

Mrs. L. A. Wakefield was recently honored at a surprise party given by friends and neighbors in honor of her birthday anniversary. Mrs. J. M. Goode was hostess and the guests showered Mrs. Wakefield with gifts. A birthday cake and other refreshments were served. Among the guests were: Lee Wakefield and daughter Leone, a son and granddaughter of the honoree; Mrs. Emma Ryens; Mrs. Bobo; Mrs. McMann; Mrs. Coke; Mrs. Lum Eakin; Mrs. Fred Good; Mrs. Wood; Mrs. M. E. Morgan; The Misses Maud McConnell; Georgiana Bobo and the Good and Eakin children.

Mrs. John Caldwell was honored at a stork shower recently by Mrs. Frank Williams. Many useful gifts were showered on Mrs. Caldwell by the guests, among whom were: Mesdames Herbert Brandstatter, Charles Kimpel, Ralph Shaffer, Aikens, John R. James, Harold Myers, Curt Myers, Dick Smith, Bruce Anawalt, Miss Catherine Crews.

desires; and also he feels that the tendency nowadays is toward more parks and play grounds rather than less and that no park in Los Angeles should be abandoned if it can be avoided.

The Eagle Rock booster club is to be attached under the 1925 license plates are now ready and may be obtained for 35 cents a pair at a number of local establishments, it is announced by Mrs. J. C. Reiter, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris and family of Los Angeles have moved into the south apartment of W. H. Stark at 5115 Rockland avenue. Mr. Morris is a landscape gardener connected with the public schools of Los Angeles.

Miss Marion Jones of 2575 Colorado boulevard was one of the members of the mid-year graduation class of the University of Southern California. She received a B. S. degree.

The Golden Matrons and Patrons, O. E. S., held a 7 o'clock dinner at the Women's Club house on Saturday, February 14. The dinner was followed by dancing, card playing and other amusements.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Dow of Lodi, have returned home after a ten days' visit with Mrs. Dow's parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Bradner.

TOO-TOO-THIN? (Part 1)

Have you tried terribly hard to gain and apparently cannot? Have you given up in despair and decided that it is natural for you to be skinny and scrawny and to shiver and shake? It runs in your family; one can't defy fate?

But you can gain. I assure you, you can. If there is nothing organically wrong with you, you can gain by following my directions. I know you can for thousands have done so and what others have done you can do. One of my directions is that you must eat more.

Read the following story and then confess, aren't your tastes exactly like the tastes of the thin man I depict?

A fat man laboriously climbed onto a street-car and placed his perspiring bulk close to an emaciated man. The emaciated man looked up and remarked peevishly that they ought to charge by space occupied on the cars. The fat man responded genially: "In that case I suppose you figure on traveling for nothing, Mr. Slimmer," which wasn't at all a bad comeback.

"We will suppose that the thin man got over his grouchy and they had a conversation. The thin man speaks.

"Would you mind telling me how you got that way, my friend?"

"I dunno! I eat very little. I never touch potatoes. Gosh, I don't see what makes me so fat!"

"Have you ever dieted?"

"Yes, there is nothing to dieting. I got fatter on the system. I cut out my breakfast, except a couple of slices of buttered toast, a dish of cereal and cream, and two cups of coffee with cream and sugar, and for lunch I ate only a couple of slices of pie a-la-mode and two glasses of milk, and at my dinner I cut out potatoes entirely and cut my bread and butter down to three slices, when I used to eat five or six."

"Of course I ate a lot of meat and vegetables, but I like 'em and they are not fattening, and for dessert I took cheese and nuts instead of sweets. And do you know, with all that dieting, I actually gained! There's nothing to dieting. If you're going to be fat, you're going to be fat and nothing will help. I suppose it's the same with being thin. You don't get fat, and I'll bet you don't get so much that it makes you thin to carry it around!"

"Yes, I do; that's a fact. For my breakfast I eat two oranges and a couple of boiled eggs and a thin slice of toast. I don't care for cereals and cream, and sugar and salad of green stuffs. They're full of vitamins, you know, and are good for you. No, I don't have mayonnaise on the salad; I can't bear oil; I take vinegar instead. I like sour stuff and greens. I eat a potato a day, too; the Lord knows they ought to be fattening, but they don't fatten me."

"I eat very little bread; I don't care for it. I like thin soups though if there's no fat on them, and I eat a lot of lean meat. I take fruit for dessert. You can see I eat like a horse. I agree with you that eating has nothing to do with whether you are fat or thin."

Now suppose some good fairy had touched these gentlemen with magic wand and had caused a transfer of their tastes, and the thin one had begun to eat as the fat one did, and vice versa. Do you suppose in six months they would have thought that eating had nothing to do with their condition? No. Because they were absolutely wrong, and six months' time or even less would have proved it. Eating has ninety-nine points out of a hundred to do with the control of weight, if there is no organic disorder entering as a factor. And even if there is, we won't take off many points."

I am going to give you some specific points on how to gain. I have finished the special articles for our F. F. F. (Friendly Fat Fraternity), and now I'll give you T. T. T.'s a little attention.

NEW YORK CLOSING
By W. S. COUSINS
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The stock market displayed unusual heaviness today. Stocks were forced on the market in the largest volume of any of the recent liquidation movements and prices declined more rapidly than in any session of the market since the turn of the year.

There were many reasons for bullish sentiment in the speculative markets today. Communist houses have been urging profit taking; the industrial "revival" has been slow and the recent debacle in the French franc has been disappointing to financial leaders here.

After early irregularity the market showed a tendency to rally shortly after the noon period. But heavy selling broke out over the whole market and prices tumbled as stocks were pressed for sale on all sides. Compared with high levels of last week, today's showed declines of from 3 to 8 points in industrial and railroad stocks which have been leading the forward movement since November and in which there have been large accumulations of paper profits for traders who have remained bullish on the market.

The market showed not the slightest disposition to rally in the last hour and prices tumbled all over the board, many of the active stocks selling at the lowest price of the year and registering losses of from 3 to 10 points. Stop loss orders were uncovered in large volume in this period causing heavy selling of stocks which have been moving forward briskly.

Mack Trucks lost seven points at 136 and Cast Iron Pipe was down 14 to 210.

The market was weak and heavy at the close.

Stock sales today totalled 2,373,900 shares; bonds $18,419,000.

Merchants Work Out Plan on Bad Checks

Stringent action on the part of the members of the Glendale Merchants' association will be taken to break up the practice of passing worthless checks, if a plan worked out by W. P. Potter and endorsed at the meeting of the merchants today by Chief of Police Fraser is carried into effect. Mr. Potter suggested that a fund be created from which all bad checks would be made good to the merchant provided the merchant in turn would promise to swear out a complaint against the guilty one.

Chief Fraser talked at the meeting today on the proposed making of parking spaces on the main business streets. A suggestion that only the curbs and a small portion of the sidewalk be marked instead of the whole street was endorsed by the merchants.

Hobbs Furney, new secretary, was introduced and spoke briefly. It was decided that business women should not be encouraged to attend the meetings of the association. President C. J. Hatz presided at the meeting which took place at the Harriett Mae Tea room.

Portable fireplaces that burn kerosene have been placed on the market.

SKIING COSTUME

ST. MORITZ, Feb. 16.—The wrinkle in skiing costumes here is to have them all wrinkles. The nether part of these garments is loose trousers tied at the ankle and wrinkling like an elephant's hind legs. The Countess of Northesk, formerly Miss Jessica Brown of Ziegfeld's Follies, has been a faithful exponent this season of the skiing wrinkles.

Board of Supervisors, at County Engineer's Request, Postpones Action

The flood-control hearing before the Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors, scheduled for this morning, was continued four weeks at the request of J. W. Reagan, county flood-control engineer, in order that plans now under way for untangling this knotty problem may be further matured before laying them before the board.

City Manager Virgil B. Stone and City Engineer John F. Johansen represented the Glendale municipal government at the hearing, which was held at the Hall of Records, Los Angeles. The local Chamber of Commerce was represented by P. J. Hayselden, chairman of the flood-control committee of that organization. Other Glendale men present included Claude B. Boynton, in charge of engineering works at Forest Lawn Memorial park, and T. A. Rucker, representing the flood-control committee of the Southern Improvement association.

Seek Satisfactory Plan
The flood-control problem of the Los Angeles county Board of Supervisors, as it concerns Glendale, is to work out a plan to care for the flood waters of Sycamore and Verdugo canyons, that will be satisfactory to the property owners of both districts. Last year the voters of Los Angeles county made available a bond issue of $450,000 to care for these flood waters, and members of the board have said this money will be spent when a suitable plan has been adopted.

Several plans have been suggested, recalls City Manager Stone. The one carrying the endorsement of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce contemplates connecting Sycamore canyon with Verdugo wash by a tunnel, and widening Verdugo wash to carry the additional flow of water.

May Order Tunnel
The original plan of the Board of Supervisors was to carry off the waters of Sycamore canyon through an open ditch draining south from the canyon to Stanley avenue, thence down from Acacia avenue, and to widen the Verdugo channel to carry the waters from Verdugo canyon, keeping the two channels separate. It is the opinion of City Manager Stone and Chairman Hayselden of the Chamber of Commerce flood-control committee that the Board of Supervisors will approve the plan of joining the two channels by a tunnel, providing they feel the majority of the property owners favor this plan.

Cave Captive Is Found After Search of 17 Days

ing was issued over the same four signatures. It read: "At 1:30 p. m. the lateral heading at a distance of twelve and one-half feet from shaft as measured circularly broke through into the original Sand cave (through which Collins entered) just below the breakdown which was found completely closed. This, after breaking through the four-foot ledge which verified predictions to the inch. Distance from entrance to Collins' head is six feet vertically.

"The location is at the elevation originally estimated and within a few feet of the position determined by the survey. "First intimation of old tunnels was the finding of several bottles, working tools, line of wire, line of inch rope, and line of three-eighths-inch rope.

Rush Timber Work
"Mr. Carmichael was called in by Alfred Marshall when these were found by Simon Johns and John Stephens. Immediately afterwards Mike Brennan was called to hurry the timber work, the old cavern being found in an extremely critical condition.

"Later John Gerald, a friend of Collins, and Lieutenant Ben Wells, conspicuous in the original cave rescue, were called down to identify the articles found. "And this definitely determined Collins' position, this check being necessary on account of inadvisability of entering until timber work was done." The articles and their positions were positively identified. Meanwhile, Albert Marshall, showing the same splendid courage so manifest through the shaft work without thought of personal danger, propped the loosely-hanging dangerous boulders and let himself down into the pit feet foremost, the opening being too small on account of his large stature for him to go head first.

"He touched with his feet what he thought to be the blanket wrapped around Collins. Immediately after this, his game little partner, Ed Brenner of Cincinnati, whose work has been conspicuous by reason of his courage, small stature and nerve, went down head foremost into the pit with a light and closely examined the face, and the position of the man we understand is Collins, and called up to Carmichael, five feet above him that the man was cold and apparently dead.

Call Conference
"At once Carmichael left the shaft, leaving all others at the bottom and called a conference of Brigadier-General Denhardt, M. E. S. Posey and Dr. W. D. Funkhouser.

"From the information at hand it will be several hours before a doctor or anyone else can safely reach Collins. Unless it develops that a way can be found to drive a drift which will reach Collins' feet it probably will be thirty-six hours before the body can be brought to the surface." At 3:30 o'clock Dr. William Hazlett and Dr. C. E. Francis entered the original passage through the crawly.

The physicians found themselves unable to get through the narrow opening into the original passage and it was announced no official medical finding would be made until the man hole could be widened.

An unofficial examination was made by Ed Brenner, who reported to Dr. Francis that he discovered no trace of respiration and that the cave prisoner was apparently dead.

"Collins is dead," said Adjutant-General Kehoe.

From this report the doctors declared unofficially that Collins "probably is dead."

Brenner reported that the earth and debris had fallen on Collins covering all but his head. His eyes were sunken. Brenner said and there was a small red mark on his right cheek, probably made by a falling rock.

There were no marks or wounds on the scalp, Brenner said.

them. Carmichael and his brave men who risked their lives for my son and my family and myself." There was just a suggestion of tears in his eyes.

Homer Collins came up to Dr. William Hazlett and showed him a whiskey bottle which had about a spoonful of coffee in it.

"This is part of the last food I gave him," he said.

One of the other workers brought up a tin shovel, rusted and caked with mud.

A scientist in London is experimenting with the radio as a means of measuring the heat generated by a girl's blush. Girls don't blush any more — they're too sophisticated. He's going to have a difficult time getting specimens. Friday, the thirteenth passed, a wire from Los Angeles said, without generating a complaint from anyone that the jinx disturbed either business or L. A.'s generally balanced equilibrium. Nothing seems to disturb L. A. excepting gamblers, bootleggers and jaywalkers. When the first two of these characters become too bold, L. A. takes notice by starting drives on dens of iniquity which, of course, L. A. didn't know existed before.

She proves it by showing all parts of said legs in the daily press. It's all good publicity—she won't worry if it gets her a job in the fillums.

Warner Brothers have started building what will be the biggest radio sending station in Hollywood. This marks the first attempt of motion picture producers to broadcast and will also serve Warner Brothers as a priceless medium of publicity.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY CLEANS A WINDOW

Uncle Wiggily was sitting near the front window of his hollow stump bungalow one day, reading the newspaper, when, all of a sudden, along came Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy with a pile of water in one paw and some rags in the other.

"You will have to move, Mr. Longears," squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I'm sorry to disturb you, but you'll have to get away from that window."

"Why?" asked the bunny gentleman. "Is the bad fox outside, going to jump in?"

"No, but I want to clean the window," went on Nurse Jane.

"Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig, is going to call this afternoon, and I want her to see the windows clean and shiny. I can't wash the window with you sitting there."

So Uncle Wiggily hopped over to another chair, and Nurse Jane began to wash the window until, all of a sudden, when she had the glass half cleaned, the telephone rang. Uncle Wiggily answered it and called:

"Mrs. Twistytail wants you to come right over to her pen, Nurse Jane. She has forgotten how to make a cornob pudding and wants you to show her how."

"Oh, I can't go and leave the window half cleaned," objected the muskrat lady.

"Go ahead," spoke the bunny. "I'll finish cleaning the window."

"You don't know how to clean windows," laughed Nurse Jane, wringing a cloth out of the water.

"Just you watch me," laughed the bunny. "You scramble over to Mrs. Twistytail's pen, and when you come back the window will be clean."

So Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy scrambled over the fields to the lady pig's pen to show her how to make a cornob pudding and while she was gone Uncle Wiggily cleaned the window, polishing it so bright as never was. And when Nurse Jane came back and saw Mr. Longears sitting by the window, reading, she said to him:

"Wiggy, put that window down. Close it! If you sit by an open window you'll catch the epidemic and sneeze your pink nose off."

"The window isn't open," laughed the bunny.

"Yes, it is," said Nurse Jane. "No, it isn't. It's just so clean that it looks open," chuckled the rabbit. And so it was. For when Nurse Jane daintily put her paw out and touched the window, she felt the glass. But it was so bright that it looked as if there was no glass there at all.

"Well, I must say you are a good window cleaner," she said to Uncle Wiggily. Then Nurse Jane began peeling potatoes to make a strawberry shortcake for lunch and Uncle Wiggily sat by the window he had cleaned.

After a while along came the Bob Cat. The Bob Cat looked at the bunny sitting by the window and the Bob Cat said to himself:

"Ah, ha. There's that rabbit sitting by an open window. I can easily jump in that open window

Bread Box Bakery Is Making Long Strides

One of the fastest growing industries in Glendale is the Bread Box bakery, whose main location is 137 North Brand boulevard. This bakery furnishes bread, cakes, pies, rolls, etc., for eighteen of the San Seelig stores and to the intermediate and Glendale High school cafeterias—in addition to other patronage.

The total daily output of this bakery averages 3000 loaves of bread a day, 500 dozen rolls, about 200 pies, 180 dozen doughnuts, and cakes and other pastries in proportion. Ten people are regularly employed.

Men's Church Club to Play Host to Women

The Men's club of the Congregational church will entertain the women at a dinner tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock at the church. There will be a program with musical selections by the Orpheus Four of Los Angeles and a motion picture, "The Industry of Cast Iron Pipes."

And nibble his ears before he sees me. I'll do it."

So the Bob Cat crept up under the cleaned window, which was so shiny that there seemed to be no glass in it at all. And the bad chap gathered his paws under him and made a leap, thinking to jump in the open window and nibble the rabbit.

"Cur-r-r!" snarled the Bob Cat as he jumped. But instead of going through the open window, as he had thought to do, he banged up against the thick, heavy glass. And it was so thick the Bob Cat didn't break it, but bumped his nose very hard—ker-biff!

"Oh, woozie wow!" howled the bad chap, as with aching nose, he fell in the snow.

"My goodness!" cried the bunny, leaping back from the window, "whatever made the Bob Cat try to get through my window?"

"I guess he thought it was open, the same as I did," laughed Nurse Jane. Then the Bob Cat with his sore nose ran back to his den and the bunny ate apple sauce ice cream for lunch. And if the pin cushion will tie a pink ribbon on the snow shovel so it looks like a rag doll, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Johnnie's seeds.

THRILLER IS NEXT ON PLAYERS' BILL

Mystery Drama, 'Night Call' Opens Dobinson Program At Playhouse

If you intend going to the Playhouse this week, now is the time to reserve your seats if you wish to get good ones, according to Florence Dobinson, general manager of the Dobinson Players, for advance seat sales for "The Night Call" are the heaviest in the history of the local house.

The universal appeal of a good mystery play, or the rapidly growing popularity of the Dobinson stock company with every section of the Glendale public, may be the reasons, but the fact remains that the size of audiences this week will be far in advance of any which have witnessed previous offerings at the Playhouse.

Adventure, love, romance, has an irresistible appeal to persons of all ages and both sexes and "The Night Call," which will occupy the spotlight at the Playhouse for this week only, has these qualities in overflowing measure. Dealing with the inside workings of the international bootlegging ring, which has its headquarters in New York, the play has been classed by Eastern critics as being fully the equal of "The Bat" in its elements of mystery, suspense and surprise.

New Faces Seen Many Glendaleans, who, up to the past week, had never patronized the Playhouse, have been pleasantly surprised to find this city has in its midst a stock company which for cleverness and polished stage technique is on a par with the best New York ever had.

No more delightfully humorous offering than last week's presentation of "Wedding Bells" has been seen in the Southland. It was responsible for many of this city's theatregoers entering the Playhouse for the first time and at once becoming numbered among its most ardent admirers.

"The Night Call" is a mystery-melodrama of gripping interest. The plot is woven around the mysterious death of Captain Richardson; suspicion falls on many and the identity of the real slayer has baffled the most intelligent audience in America until the denouement in the last act.

BOND OBJECTORS GIVEN ARGUMENT

W. L. Truitt Asks Opposition How Children Are to Be Educated

Editor The Evening News—Through your paper I want to ask the objectors to the school bonds what they propose to do with the thousands of children who will register for entry into our schools the next few terms, and for whom there will be no room, if we do not vote bonds to provide it for them.

In an issue of the Los Angeles Times a few days ago there was a list of forty or fifty houses the school board was offering for sale at from one to five hundred dollars. Those same houses cost the L. A. taxpayers from three to seven thousand dollars each. They are now experiencing this enormous loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars, because they had too many citizens whose only view of economy was, don't spend any money now, but wait. Instead of buying vacant land as they could have done they had to buy houses and lots in order to get the necessary land.

If Glendale follows their example we will also buy houses and lots instead of vacant land. The time to buy school sites is before the land has been improved.

Reasons Why It is a noteworthy fact that Glendale's largest taxpayers are almost universally in favor of the bonds. The same vision that enabled them to become heavy taxpayers shows them the necessity of providing for the needs of our schools. They are not suspicious of our school boards, or of our faculty, or of our children, or of our schools. They believe as I do that all of them will compare favorably with any in this or any other state.

Any thinking person can readily see that a city which is increasing its population at the rate of ten thousand yearly must build more schools and lots of them. And don't be frightened by the tax bugaboo, the newcomers are going to pay the interest on the bonds. The increased taxable wealth by reason of their coming will take care of that and the sinking fund besides.

I am for the bonds and I hope we will need three or four millions more in the next few years for this is the real index of the prosperity, growth and progress of our city.

SHRINE'S DINNER DANCE TOMORROW

Affair at Oakmont Club Promises to Be Best Of Season

Reservations for the dinner-dance to be given at the Oakmont Country club Tuesday night by the Glendale Shrine club are coming in fast. Dr. F. R. Gartley, secretary, said this morning, "Judging from the present list, tomorrow night's affair promises to be one of the best attended social events of the season," he explained.

In addition to the dance, an attractive program of entertainment has been arranged which includes several specialties and eight vaudeville acts. Shrine members have not yet made their reservations are urged to do so as soon as possible.

Through the courtesy of the executive committee of the Imperial council, Los Angeles, Glendale Shrine members have been extended the privilege of making seat reservations now at the Los Angeles Stadium for five days' events to be held next June during the time of the national convention. Tickets for the stadium are $5.50. Dr. Gartley says, and every Glendale Shrine member who expects to attend should send in his check immediately.

Final Basketball Contests on Central League List Set for Tomorrow

Glendale's final basketball game in the heavyweight class will be played at Covina tomorrow. The change of the scheduled date of this game was finally agreed upon by the officials of the two schools. The two teams were to meet a week ago last Friday, but as the game was to be and will be played on an outdoors court, the wet weather prohibited the hook-up. Glendale still has a chance for the title, that is, if Alhambra loses to Citrus in the play-off of their tie game, and if Glendale wins at Covina tomorrow. When Glendale beat Citrus Friday the Lemons were practically put out of the running; all the good they could do now is to lose.

can do now is to beat Alhambra and give the locals another crack at the Moors.

MORE DISCUSSION ON SCHOOL BONDS

Taxpayer Says Vote Cast
For Proposition Is
Good Investment

Editor, The Evening News:—I have been reading so much in your paper, both "pro and con," in regard to the school bond issue to be voted upon February 17, that I feel I would like to express my views.

Have you ever had a friend visit you, who was thinking of locating in Southern California, who is rearing a family and who is looking over different cities, deciding where to locate? Sure, you have! What were the things in which he was most interested? You know the schools were one of the most, if not the most, important. You told him our schools were excellent.

Then you drove him about, showing him our beautiful city and our beautiful schools, which he wished to see.

In your conversation setting out the many good points of our wonderful city, you told him of our rapid increase in population, and in this way you apologized for the makeshift bungalows that he noticed on some of our school grounds. This aroused his curiosity, as he was so favorably impressed with all other things, so he inquired regarding our school enrollment and the facilities for handling that number of pupils. He was simply appalled when he learned the true conditions.

Good Investment
It is true that new schools and equipment cost money, but this should be considered not as an expense, but as a good investment, from which the taxpayer reaps a great benefit.

If we have the institutions here to invite new people, there will be more to help meet the cost. Anyway, this is a weak argument, as it is simply putting your dollar ahead of the boy and girl, who are the citizens of tomorrow.

Let us not be controlled by selfish sectionalism.

I am a taxpayer. In fact, about twice a year, I feel that I own lots of property. I have one child, who attends the Colorado school, where they are not crowded, and where they will not spend any of the money being raised by voting these bonds. But I am interested in your boy and your girl, and would feel much ashamed if I voted against an issue of this kind, which will bring about a condition we need so badly.

Public Debt
You, without children, owe it to your neighbor, your city, your state and your country to support these bonds.

We have a good school board, which we elected. They hold a thankless job, and are giving unselfishly of their time for you and me. Let us support their recommendation, as they are in a position to know what we need in connection with our schools.

Get the actual figures and study our needs. Then you, as a true and loyal Glendelian, will vote in favor of the school bonds, February 17.

ATWATER BODY IN MEETING TONIGHT

Spirited Session is Expected When Improvement Association Members
Gather at Baptist Church

Several hundred persons will attend the meeting of the Atwater Community Improvement association tonight at the Baptist church, when fireworks are expected and an important address will be given. Sparks will fly and may ignite some gunpowder when the order of business swings around to a discussion of ornamental light standards for streets of the district.

This will be a minor explosion compared to the one that is expected when irate citizens undertake to place before the association facts concerning an attempt to have property owners waive their right of protest on street-paving jobs soon to be ordered by the City Council. If the future does not last too long, and President Arthur M. Gilman assures that it will not, E. Gordon Whitnall, chairman of the Los Angeles City Planning commission, is scheduled to talk on important contemplated improvements in the district.

Two burning issues agitate the minds and hearts of property owners north of Glendale boulevard—what kind of street paving they want, and when, and what kind of lights to illuminate the streets when they get them.

Would Rush Work
Petitions for street paving have already been signed, apparently to the satisfaction of all, and everything was serene until Clayton S. Decker, real estate dealer, and Los Feliz road, in company with friends and co-workers, is said to have conceived the idea of hastening completion of the street paving by about four months.

This, they claimed, could be done if a sufficient number of property owners would sign a second petition waiving their right of protesting on the street work and pledging that they would do all in their power to keep other property owners from protesting. No sooner was this petition put into circulation than a wave of indignant protest swept the section.

The fact that Mr. Decker was circulating the petition was printed in the Atwater column of The Glendale Evening News. The day following, furious housewives, paper in hand, appeared at the office of President Gilman and Secretary P. E. Lipscomb, demanding to know what it was all about, why they should waive their right of protest, and seeking answers to many other questions.

Will Discuss Situation
The association had nothing to do with the document, everyone was told, but an insistent demand caused President Gilman to finally include it on the schedule of "events" for the community meeting tonight. Here the matter of street paving and the right to protest rests. That is, rests until tonight. But wise ones say it needs its rest, for the night is likely to be a hard one.

The matter of lights strikes at an old sore spot. Last meeting the subject was given due attention and a tentative agreement was reached. New angles have come up in the past two weeks, officials say, and a reopening of the question is deemed advisable. A representative of one prominent light standard concern will be present "by request," it was announced, and others may come if they so desire. Whispers of attempted bribery to gain the acceptance of one kind of standard and have grown stronger and louder since the last meeting, and may be brought to a head at tonight's session.

After all this, Mr. Whitnall is expected to speak. Everybody is invited and a nice time is assured. Come early and park your shooting irons at the door.

Baseball Diamond Ready

The baseball diamond at the new recreation park on Los Feliz road has been completed and is in use. Bleachers have been erected and others are in the course of construction. Baseball games at the park are held regularly.

Excavation for the boys' and girls' swimming pools at the park has been commenced. There will be two pools. Both will be completed and ready for use by the time the swimming season opens. Other improvements are being made daily at the park.

Moves Into New Home

Rev. J. W. Utter, pastor of the Community Christian church, is virtually moved into his beautiful new home on Glendale boulevard. The structure, seven rooms in all, is the first Swiss chalet to be erected in the Atwater district.

Rev. Utter's son, James Utter, has relinquished his position with the Scantland Brothers' hardware store in Hollywood, and will attend University of Southern California during the forthcoming semester. Prior to returning to school he and Keith Woodward made an expedition into the high mountain fastnesses back of Mt. Wilson, where they encountered plenty of snow and rugged enjoyment. They have just returned from the trip.

Notes From Realty Row

Among the recent real estate transactions was the purchase of a lot at the corner of Garden and Walnut Grove avenue by H. W. McClelland, contractor and builder. Mr. McClelland will erect a residence on the property immediately.

W. F. McCutley is now occupying his new five-room stucco bu-gallow on Valleybrink boulevard. One of the largest realty deals recently was completed during the latter part of last week by A. G. Shieck, contractor, who sold five new houses on Hollywood drive, taking in exchange twenty-six lots on Hollywood avenue, Hollywood. Mr. Shieck will build on the Hollywood lots.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

How over the Sabbath the hearts of humanity yearned for news from the cave in which Floyd Collins was still held captive.

Throughout the day The Glendale Evening News' telephones were kept busy with interested people's inquiries for the latest news.

International News Service on Sunday gave the very latest information from Cave City, Kentucky, reporting the progress of the rescue crew.

Carl W. Harris, Sonia Lee and other International News Service correspondents were "on the job." They have covered the daily story of the cave tragedy in a big way. Further protection was given The Glendale Evening News by Owen L. Scott, Oliver Sherwood and other Consolidated Press, association correspondents, who were rushed to the scene from Chicago and Louisville.

Central Press association photographers from Cleveland, Ohio, also have given readers of The Glendale Evening News the pictorial progress of the rescue work.

If you haven't seen the new boulevard lighting of Glendale avenue, you have missed an improvement worth noticing. It is a pleasure to drive through the city on that boulevard during the evening with its stately trees, fine residences and commercial district.

The celebration of Central avenue paving and widening is next in order. And will some one now insist that San Fernando road, north of Windsor road, be repaved and lighted?

Well, well, well! And a few more wells! Los Angeles has discovered the San Fernando valley to be an underground reservoir.

Glendale is situated in the San Fernando valley. It made that discovery some years ago. Glendale has a supply of water that is hard to beat.

In the late winter, spring and summer the flow of springs in the Verdugo hills furnishes a large part of the supply. In the late summer and fall the wells along San Fernando road augment that supply. It is estimated that present facilities will care for a population of 150,000. And that supply can be increased by developing the canyon springs—installing new wells when the time comes.

There has been no water shortage here. There will not be for several decades, it seems, which is reassuring to the homebuilder and investor.

Tomorrow good citizens will vote on school bonds. As stockholders in community property every person's individual opinion should be registered at the polls. It will be much more effective than the words written for or against the bonds. Do not fail to vote.

Music Club Auxiliary Plans Future Activity

Officers of the Juvenile Auxiliary of the Glendale Music club met Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. L. Marlenee, director of the auxiliary, at 301 North Central avenue. The auxiliary will take charge of the fish pond at the hazard being planned by the Glendale Music club for February 26, 27 and 28. Plans were made for the program at the meeting of the Juvenile Auxiliary, which will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Van Grove music store.

'Y' Orange Secretary Talks to School Boys

Claude E. Morrow, Y. M. C. A. secretary, at Orange, spoke to boy students at the Glendale Intermediate school at 1 o'clock today. He also addressed students at the Burbank Intermediate and the Burbank High schools earlier in the day. Secretary Morrow will attend the meeting of the Glendale Hi-Y club tonight and will hold a special conference with Hi-Y leaders after the meeting.

BOND ISSUE TOO BIG, IS CLAIMED

J. C. Sherer, City Treasurer,
Writes Final Article
On Propositions

Editor, The Evening News:—On the eve of one of the most important elections ever held in Glendale, let us consider the arguments advanced by both sides. The proponents of the bond issue have stressed the fact that there has been a large increase in the number of children attending schools here during the just-passed year and that the increase will continue at a similar ratio in the years to come. Up-to-date this has not been disputed, not even the last clause, the accuracy of which prophecy no man knows. There have been further statements as to the crowded condition of the schools in some cases, which also goes undisputed. This is practically the whole case of those advocating the issue of $2,400,000 of bonded debt. The opponents of the issue have granted all of this claim, and have based their opposition on the assertion that the sum called for is far in excess of the sum required to meet these unquestioned necessities. A number of facts have been stated which cannot be controverted, in support of this contention that the sum called for is grossly in excess of requirements.

Political Machine
We have shown that the extravagance of the proposed program is not entirely of local origin, that it is in keeping with a state-wide system of waste in public expenditure for schools, backed by an almost invincible political machine. The Glendale schools are only a cog in this state-wide machinery that is rapidly converting an asset into an incubus. We have shown that the blanket form of ballot is intended to deprive the people of any possibility of discriminating at the polls between the things which they deem desirable and those to which they object. We have shown that this arrogant attitude can only be curbed by denying the demands of the school authorities who frame the program and arbitrarily attempt to make the taxpayer swallow it.

Now what will the people answer? Will they be subservient to the will of this soundly entrenched oligarchy or will they assert their independence as citizens? The friends of the proposed issue assert their belief in the wisdom and good business judgment of those who control school matters.

Lack Business Ability
We have shown that the people we employ as teachers, are not of generally recognized business ability, however they may shine otherwise, and have called attention to one case where a "necessary" school site was bought for a price in considerable excess of its value, never used for school purposes, and after paying interest charges on it for seven years, was sold for about one-half of its cost on a rising market. F. L. Muhleman, R. S. Person and I have quoted figures showing that the proposed bond issue will run the district perilously near to the unsafe margin of our assessed valuation, and that future bond issues, which may really be "necessary" may be rendered impossible in time of need.

We have shown that the program furnished us for the expenditure of these millions of dollars ultimately the erection of three additional senior high schools, which makes a total of five for the district, or just about one-half as many as Los Angeles has and will be five times the number in Pasadena. The friends of the issue, however, may in defense be expected to admit, in private, that it is not the intention ever to build on the two sites in the Tujunga section. We have shown that by the establishment of a number of junior high schools, in sections where there is the greatest need, in which the seventh, eighth and ninth grades can be cared for, something like 900 pupils may be taken from the high school as soon as this system is inaugurated. We have shown further that the statement that "the seating capacity of the Harvard school is 550," is greatly misleading, inasmuch as one year ago, just before moving to the Broadway school, there were enrolled there 1978 pupils.

A number of arguments might be added but enough have been presented to enable the voters to arrive at a reasonable conclusion. Even at this late hour very few people have seen the complete program of expenditures contemplated, and are necessarily much in the dark as to them; to support the proposition under these circumstances, simply gives them an opportunity to exhibit their sublime faith in the infallibility of the school oligarchy.

If the bond issue is defeated no dire calamity will follow. There will be some delay that might have been avoided had wisdom prevailed in calling the elections, but the things really needed in and for the schools will be provided without throwing 1,000,000 or more dollars into the capacious maw of the tax eaters.

Thanks to the fair-minded attitude of The News, the people have not been left in entire ignorance of the issue.

J. C. SHERER.
